Dear Parent:

Your student is now a part of Reeltown High School. The media center at the high school offers a variety of reading materials. These materials are often geared towards a more mature audience since we are a high school. Due to policy of Intellectual Freedom that governs libraries, we cannot control what your child reads. You as the parent are the one who holds that authority and responsibility. If you don't feel comfortable with your child reading mature content, I recommend that you have a conversation with them. If your child checks out a book they are not comfortable with, they are free to check it back and try something new. We, also, have a growing ebook collection that they may enjoy, as well. We look forward to working with your student(s) this year.

Sincerely,
Wendy Moore
Library Media Specialist
